Why should you and your colleagues come to Self Growth Professional Development Days?

Knowledge and Networking. Period.

Attending the PMI NB Self Growth Conference is an investment in your development as a leader and as a project management professional. If you haven't already registered, please consider the following reasons why you and your fellow colleagues should attend and register today as we are quickly approaching the early bird deadline dates for registration discounts.

Attending Professional Development Conferences is an investment in your professional future...here are a few reasons why:

Bring Back New Skills to Your Group: The skills and resources that you acquire at the Self Growth Conference and bring back to your departments and businesses are valuable assets to your organization, your leaders and you.

Tap Directly into Experienced Leaders: The knowledge gained from experienced leaders presenting on topics such as team building, stakeholder engagement, how to enhance performance by connecting the dots, and leadership development is instrumental to overcome challenges that your teams or project faces.

Only $99
for Full-Time
Students

Find Immediate Solutions: The benefits received from meeting face-to-face with fellow leaders, project management practitioners and business professionals serving in similar roles and in organizations of similar size will provide immediate solutions to challenges faced on your projects or with your teams.
